PubMed is a search engine for free access to the MEDLINE database of citations and abstracts of biomedical research articles.

PMID, acronym for «PubMed Identifier» or «PubMed Unique Identifier», is a unique number assigned to each appointment of an article from biomedical journals and life sciences that is added to PubMed

PubMed includes more than 27 million citations for biomedical MEDLINE literature, life science journals, and online books. Appointments may include links to the full text content of the central PubMed and Publisher websites

Mendeley Supports Responsible Sharing Learn how you can share

The screenshot shows the Mendeley account settings page. The navigation bar includes links for Feed, Library, Suggest, Stats, Groups, Datasets, Careers, and Funding, along with a search icon and a notification bell. The left sidebar lists settings categories: Account, Privacy, Profile Updates, Notifications (selected), Job Preferences, and Billing. The main content area is titled 'Notifications' and contains the following text: 'Use the checkboxes below to control which notifications you receive from Mendeley. Save your changes using the save buttons at the top and bottom of the page.' Below this is a section for 'Email notifications' with a list of checkboxes: 'Confirm successful monthly payments', 'Someone follows you', 'Receive newsletter updates from Mendeley', 'Someone accepts you as a follower', 'Someone mentions me', 'Weekly article suggestions', 'Weekly newsfeed updates', and 'New publication alert - powered by Scopus'. A 'Save changes' button is located at the bottom of the list. At the very bottom of the page, there is a footer with the text 'Mendeley Supports Responsible Sharing > Learn how you can share'.
